Fire Commissioners Paving Way for Fire District Election

Plan Campaign to Sell Fire Protection

A joint meeting of the Fire District advisory committee with the Fire Commissioners was held today (Thursday) noon at the Lemon Grove School. Raymond Carmody has been added to the Advisory committee as chairman of the contact committee. John Koop, manager of the Lemon Grove branch of First National Bank, has been named on the bond committee to serve with Byron Netzley, A. C. Anderson and S. H. Moore are the equipment committee.

Upon recommendation of the Fire Commissioners to the Advisory committtee, the following motion was unanimously carried:

1 That a $35,000 bond issue be presented to the Fire District on June 6, 1950, the money to be used as follows:

Station and land	$10,000.00
Apparatus	20,000.00
*Additional fire hydrants	5,000.00
Total	$35,000.00

*This item has been added upon the recommendation of the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District to provide the necessary additional fire hydrants. Heretofore, this item had not been considered in the capital outlay.

2 That we endeavor to raise $1,000 for the promotion and advertising of the proposed bond election;

That the $1,000 be raised by subscription;

That we print in the newspaper names of firms and individuals and amounts contributed to the expense of the bond election;

That all checks for expense be made payable to the Lemon Grove Board of Fire Commissioners, in care of Harry Monell, secretary-treasurer of the Board.

Rev. J. Morris Mulkey, chairman of the fire commissioners, announces that the records of the Lemon Grove Fire District will be open to inspection each Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce offices, 3440 Main St.

Hi, Neighbor

by Mac Rex Graham

Red Cross time again! And please, neighbor, don't groan. They used to tell us that life is just one darn thing after another, but now life is just one campaign after another.

By law of Congress, Red Cross is required to take care of servicemen's families, give home service and disaster relief. Red Cross post war service is heavy—Gray ladies, staff assistants and arts and skills directors are invaluable in Veterans Hospitals.

First Aid, including Accident Prevention, Life Saving and Home Nursing, has saved thousands of lives.

Motor service could well be mentioned among the first for assistance is given in getting donors to Blood Banks and in taking children and old people to clinics, who otherwise could not attend.

Red Cross is you and you and you! When you give, you invest in the greatest humanitarian organization on earth.

Finally got down to visit our good friend, O. G. Beebe at the Firestone Store and found him unpacking all kinds of fishing tackle and fisherman's supplies. Looked like he had just about everything an Isaac Walton would want. Any one could tell he is a friend of Mac and Carmen at the Avalon.

When I got back to the office there was the Lady with the green thumb from the Lemon Grove Nursery waiting with an ad, about her lovely hyacinths. Blooms are just a peekin' out and she's going to let you have them cheap this weekend.

The Kitchen Band made another big hit at the March of Dimes Talent Show Saturday night but repercussions aren't too good around town. A lot of the business men are complaining of the noise at home. Too many of their ladies trying to play tunes on the pots and pans while working in the kitchens.

Speaking about kitchens, you ladies will have something to dream about when you see the ritzy St. Charles kitchen being built in the Lemon Grove Hardware. Might just as well get ready to remodel, gentlemen, there should be one in every home.

When it comes to immaculate, super duper cleanliness, you never saw anything to equal the Grove Pastry Shop. Never look across the street, that someone isn't polishing something. Every evening, those gals over there scrub every inch of the shelves, counters and show cases, then polish 'till the glare nearly puts your eyes out.

I thought I knew I knew it all,
But now I must confess,
The more I know I know I know,
I know I know the less.

Camp Fire Girls 40th Anniversary

By MRS. S. R. CLOSE

Camp Fire Girls organization was started 40 years ago in March 1910 by a group of educators in the vanguard of the progressive educational movement to formulate a plan of constructive liesure-time activities for younger girls—"to perpetuate the spiritual ideas of the home" and "to stimulate and aid in the formation of habits making for health and character."

Foremost among these responsible for founding of Camp Fire Girls was Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, of whose life and works all of us in Camp Fire can justly be proud. Dr. Gulick was director of physical education in New York City, lecturer at the New York University, social engineer with Russel Sage Foundation and founder of National Playground Association. To Mrs. Gulick, no less than her husband, Camp Fire owes a debt of gratitude in sharing her husband's philosophy and ideals.

The Camp Fire Insignia is the crossed logs and flame symbolizing the hearth fire of the home and the campfire of the outdoors.

The law of the Camp Fire Girls is "Worship God, Seek Beauty, Give Service, Pursue Knowledge, Be Trustworthy, Hold on to Health and Be Happy."

The program is based on the following 7 crafts: Home, Outdoor, Creative Arts, Frontiers, Business, Sports and Games and Citizenship.

The watchword is Wohelo, composed of the words, "Work" "Health" and "Love."

"What we learn by doing we never forget" and joy in doing is the goal of the Camp Fire program which extends around the world.

By Mrs. Leon Meyers

Verne Donahue, guidance attendance and co-ordinator of Curriculum Service for San Diego County Schools, spoke on a recreational program for local schools during the summer vacation period, at the Co.ordinating Council meeting Monday evening. He also discussed pro and con the Juvenile Employment Agency. He exhibited copies of work permits issued to all children through this agency.

Fred Michels, chairman, introduced two new members: Frank Roberts, representing the Kiwanis Club, and Mrs. Snare, the Congregational Church.

After reading of the proposed new by-laws, by Wm. E. Vick, they were adopted.

In the discussion on summer recreation program, it was pointed out that the County will give a similar amount of money to that raised locally for the project. Mr. Bemis, Mr. Netzley and Mrs. Durham were appointed a committee to investigate.

Mrs. Snare and Mrs. McGuire were appointed to investigate the forming of a Juvenile Employment Agency.

Forrest Baxter, chairman of the local Red Cross drive, reported that 80 persons would be soliciting funds, expecting to raise the quota of $750. The drive ends March 31.

The Executive Board and committee members will meet at the home of Mrs. McGuire, 3210 Kemp St., on March 27.

Hanna Says We Must Fight "Isms"

Jack Hanna, chairman of the San Diego County Republican Central Committee, told the Lemon Grove Kiwanis Club Monday noon that this is the year we must get in and fight the Fair Deal Socialistic trend, as 1952 may be too late.

He pointed out that service clubs must take an active part in the campaign to save the American way of life.

Service clubs are going to unite in a forceful effort for community betterment, he said.

Speaking to the club on "California, the Have It State," he stated that if the Fair Deal continues to take from Californians large sums in federal taxes, giving the money to the five Southern Have Not States, we will soon be "the Had it" state.

Commenting on the shift in population to the western states, Mr. Hanna said that California is shy 10 Congressmen, but that this will be corrected after the re-apportionment which will follow the 1950 census, but that at the present rate of increase, we will be in the same position as we are today for the next 10 years.

The Central Arizona Irrigation project was so planned in Washington that the Senate would ignore 11 million Californians, he said.

These planners are not Democrats, they are Socialists, but will deny it and they claim that their ideas are not socialistic, Mr. Hanna ponited out, and said that when any one opposes their health plan or aid to education he is against the common people, and opposed to the educating of the young. Opponents to the Fair Deal are immediately put on the spot, he said.

We have to take a position this year against the planners—two years hence it will be too late," he declared.

Pictures Show Growth of San Diego

Harry Monell, of the Monterey Market, has been elected by the Executive Board of the Chamber of as a member to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Stanley Blake. V. J. Dorman, president, has appointed Jackson Ammons as representative from the Chamber of Commerce to the Co-ordinating Council. Mr. Monell is secretary-clerk of the Lemon Grove Fire District, and Mr. Ammons is vice-president of the Chamber.

How San Diego and the surrounding area have developed from a tiny village to a major metropolis in the last 80 years will be shown to members and friends of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Community Center Building on School Lane. The program to be presented was compiled after months of work by a special committee. It consists of 200 slides of great historical value, plus a recorded narration utilizing voices of top radio announcers and musical backgrounds. It traces the history of San Diego from the days when "Father" Alonzo E. Horton arrived and created a New Town. It covers the difficult times the city had in obtaining railroads, adequate water, military installations, and industries. Considerable space in the presentation is devoted to the foothills and back country areas.

A valuable collection of old pictures and documents will be exhibited through the courtesy of the Union Title Insurance and Trust Co. In addition, John Hill, membership committee chairman has obtained interesting pictures from Lemon Grove residents.

President Dorman has scheduled a short business meeting to precede the program. After the showing of the film, refreshments will be served by the Business Women's League. All businessmen and residents of Lemon Grove community are invited to attend.

Fergusons Open Insurance Agency

The Ferguson Insurance Agency is opening an office at 7800 Broadway in the G. W. Casteel real estate office, next Wednesday.

The company is now operating an insurance agency in El Cajon, and is owned by G. A. and Mabell Ferguson. In expanding their business, they selected Lemon Grove because, as Mr. Ferguson put it, this is the fastest growing community in California today.

Mr. Ferguson spent 25 years with the San Diego Gas and Electric Co. as a district manager and engineer, handling much of the company's installations throughout this section of the county.

The El Cajon office has been in operation for more than five years. Perry De Long will be the manager of the Lemon Grove office. See announcement on page 4.

Food Distribution Bill Proposed to Help Use Surplus Crops

By CONG. RICHARD NIXON

One day last week a congressman from New York State received a letter from a constituent describing himself as "a fully paid-up Federal taxpayer" and requesting that, as such, he be "immediately alloted" his rightful share of government purchased surplus foods now stored in bulging warehouses.

The man's representative, Mr. Keating, thereupon forwarded the claim to the Secretary of Agriculture with his endorsement and blessing, noting that the value of surplus foods now owned by the government is over two billion dollars. Congressman Keating added: "This surplus could be distributed to families of four throughout the country in this proportion: 24 quarts of dried milk; 1 1-3 pounds of prunes; 1-2 pound cheese; 24 pounds dried beans and peas; 1-2 pound raisins; 80 pounds potatoes; 5 1-2 dozen dried eggs."

Meanwhile, the House Appropriations Committee last week released a report disclosing that the Department of Agriculture paid $105,239,287 for storage of these surplus foods during the last six months of 1949. That is at the rate of over $17,500,000 per month, and the storage bill is running even higher now. These figures are for storage only; they do not take into account the cost of transporting the food to the warehouses—nor of the later removing some of it, like potatoes to be destroyed, or fed to cattle, while Canadian potatoes are imported!

Still another development in the food surplus situation came last week when the Secretary of Agriculture, testifying before the Appropriations Committee for his department's budget bill, claimed that he could pay freight charges on surplus commodities if they were to be converted to cattle feed, but not if they were destined for human consumption! However, if this interpretation of existing law is an accurate one, a

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IS A LITTLE LATE

The campaign of the Republican party this year is based on an all-out effort to stop the Socialistic threat to the American way of life.

More power to the party, but in the opinion of the Review, the party is a little late in getting started on this effort. There has been too much "Me Too" and fear that the candidates would lose votes if they opposed the "Gimme" policy of the New Deal.

However, candidates that come out flat footed for the American system of free enterprise get the votes of the people. Our own Cloyed as an example, won out over one Democrat and three Republicans who never said a word that might offend any one on the gimme end of the string.

Adm. Les Gehres, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from this district, is another man who is not afraid of the New Deal and he has been urging a campaign against the Gimme policy for many weeks past, long before he became a candidate for public office.

Genuine red blooded Americans who believe that every one should stand on their own feet, will rally behind Gehres and elect him in November.

Because a person is supporting Gehres does not mean that he believes the destitute should go hungry, or that youngsters should not have proper education, nor that the many honestly out of work because there is no work to be had, should walk the streets penniless, with a starving family at home.

But he does believe that everyone should be given an equal opportunity to earn a living and enjoy the fruits of his labors. The Social Security laws are going to have to be revamped, as are the unemployment insurance laws, that there be money in the treasury to pay those in genuine need.

This thing of a person working so many weeks, then laying off and collecting compensation for 26 weeks is nothing more than a racket, and the state is paying heavily for it.

The Social Security funds are being invested in Government bonds, and the money spent in the daily operation of the Federal government. These bonds must be paid, and who but the people are going to pay them. Social Security must be payed twice.

The hot potato issue must be settled on a basis fair play for the producer and the consumer. But why pay tax money to the producer that the consumer might save a few cents (which is doubtful) on an item of food?

The Review is happy to note, however, that the Republicans are beginning to stand up on their hind feet and fight for the American way of life. Many Democrats are falling in line, too. They are beginning to realize that the planners in Washington are not Democrats, but are using that party as a vehicle to accomplish their ends.

They would use any party in power, if they could wiggle their way into positions of influence.

TAX THE UNTAXED

A Denver Post columnist, Bruce Gustin, recently wrote on the wartime excise taxes which are still in effect. He said, "Secretary Snyder's suggestion for repeal of the 20 percent tax on baby oils, powders, lotions is fine. Cutting the 20 percent tax on furs, luggage, handbags, jewelry and cosmetics to 10 percent, would be a big help. So would repeal of the three percent. tax on freight charges, cutting the 25 percent. tax on long distance telephone calls to 15 percent., and reducing the 15 percent. tax on railroad, bus and airline tickets to 10 percent. But more relief should be given.

"Certainly the transportation tax should be repealed. . . Any punitive tax on business in peace time is abhorrent. The 15 percent. tax on local telephone service and the 20 percent tax on theatre tickets should be repealed, also.

"Secretary Snyder also proposed that the corporation tax of 38% be boosted to 42% on business income in excess of $25,000. That would be an economic crime. If revenue lost through repeal or reduction of excise taxes must be provided, the way to get it is by 'taxing the untaxed.' Take away the exemptions of giant co-ops, educational institutions and other organizations which are operating business and industrial enterprises on a tax-free basis in competition with heavily taxed private business."

The excise taxes are an unjust and unnecessary burden on every consumer, every retailer, and on workers and producers in many important fields. Reduction in percentages would be a halfway measure—total repeal is the proper action. The sooner we get rid of them, the better off the country will be.

Attack of Amnesia Transforms Milquetoast Into Roost Ruler

By BILLY ROSE

The other day I picked up the telephone to call Eleanor, and it was almost half a minute before I could remember my number at home. At the time, this memory lapse didn't seem worth brooding about, but last night I happened to meet up with a well-known psychiatrist at the Stork Club, and over a jigger of ginger-beer I told him what had happened.

"It was probably a mild attack of amnesia," he said. "As a rule, the victims are folks who, consciously or unconsciously, want to escape from their routine chores, and every now and then their minds blank out as a protest against doing the same old things the same old way."

"What kind of pills should I take?"

"Fun pills," said the mind-medico. "Buy yourself a sailboat, take up skeet-shooting, or get a set of water colors and learn how to paint."

"And supposing I don't.?"

"Chances are nothing will happen except that you'll forget a few more phone numbers. On the other hand, there's always the possibility that the spells may get longer and more frequent. That's what happened not long ago to a good friend of yours."

Billy Rose

JERRY—and I'm sure you know the Jerry I mean—used to be one of Broadway's leading juveniles and stay-up lates. Five years ago, as you know, he put away his hair-oil and got a job producing radio shows. And not long after, he married the daughter of a network executive, bought a home in Scarsdale and decided to settle down.

"Well, as often happens when a girl has too much dowry, his wife did most of the settling for him. She made him exchange his friends for hers, his fun for hers and his life for hers. And within a year, the man who used to be a gay dog became all dog— a Westchester version of Caspar Milquetoast.

"After two years of being yammered at by his missus, Jerry came in to see me one day and said that he was having trouble with his memory—that it was blacking out on him now and then. I asked him some questions about his home life, and when he told me what it was like I advised him to stand up to his wife, and if necessary, slap her down occasionally. He told me, quite seriously, she wouldn't stand for such a thing.

"One morning several months later, he came to my office, and told me quite a tale. It seems that on his way home the night before he had had an attack of amnesia, and when he came to 15 hours later he was in a New York hotel room, with no idea of what had happened in between.

"I phoned his wife, and from her story, managed to put the pieces together. Jerry's memory had snapped as he got to the door of his house in Scarsdale—perhaps in protest against the stuffy people his wife had invited to dinner—and all he knew was that he was standing on a strange stoop.

"AFRAID TO RING the bell, he sneaked into the back yard, found an open window, hoisted himself through, then recognizing nothing, stopped to puzzle out the situation. Who was he? What sort of man would climb through the window of a strange house? Only a burglar, of course. Ergo, he must be a burglar. And so he tiptoed upstairs, entered his wife's bedroom and began stuffing her jewelry into his pockets.

"At this point, his missus walked in, told him to stop playing cops and robbers, and began badgering him at the top of her over-sized lungs. But Jerry, the burglar, instead of melting into the carpet, belied her one right in the teeth.

"That's all there was to it. Somehow, he got back to New York, checked in at a hotel, and when he woke up his amnesia was gone."

"Did you tell his wife that her husband wasn't himself when he clipped her on the chin?" I asked.

The psychiatrist smiled. "Of course not, and what's more, I advised my patient to keep mum. Jerry went home to a big reconciliation scene—the old 'worm-turns' story—and ever since, the more spine he has shown the more supine his wife has become.

"I went to his house for a poker session recently, and the only time she came in the room was when she brought in the drinks. To date, there have been no recurrences of amnesia, and it's my belief that if Jerry doesn't take any more nonsense from his wife, there won't be."

"Are you suggesting I go home and hang a shiner on Eleanor's eye?" I asked.

"In your case," said the psychiatrist, "I doubt if it's necessary. However, if you have any more trouble remembering telephone numbers, I'd suggest you invest a few dollars in a water-color set."

ROCKY MOUNTAIN PINE GROSBEAK

Pinicola Enucleator Montana

It was our very first trip to the high mountains in search of any material other than the Nutcracker, whose trail we had followed during early March and April, hence we were hardly prepared for the abundance of bird life that met us at every turn. We were camping in the Wasatch Mountains at about 8500 feet. We were in a maze of all things new, so the season passed with a goodly number of identifications, and a working knowledge of the country from the pussy willow marshes of 7500 feet to the barren rocky peaks of the 11,000 foot divide that drops away to the Rockies. While but little was definitely learned this year concerning the habits and whereabouts of nesting of P. E. Montana, each year since. We had followed, watched and noted with that increasing, tantalizing, yet ever hopeful interest of a more intimate knowledge of this vagrant who crosses your path unawares, always with that seeming disregard of your presence. Flaunting in the bright sunshine a sheen of brilliantly illumined crimson or gold, as the color phase may be, he is then lost in the deepening shadows of the conifers. Many times after a gruelling half day, we have wearily dropped to a fallen tree to commiserate on our vainless search of the morning, meanwhile satisfying the inner man with a wholewheat slug and its accompanying handful of nutmeats and raisins, when from out of the somewhere, but to us nowhere, we see a shimmer, as it, were of sunshine dropped through the foliage. There on a nearby conifer is our bird preening. And while we watch this gorgeous display of red and gold, the female in sombre browns and grays, coming unheralded, alights with lowered quivering body and fluttering outstretched wings expectant of her mates wooing. A moment or two of lovers greetings, and they are off over the stony point of the mountain to their nest.

From the field notes of Eduardo Traganza, June 21 1914 —Today I went up American Fork Creek, following an old roadway which lead me to an old miner's camp where I found much snow and little signs of new Spring growth. Chickadees, Williamson's Sapsucker, Tree Swallows and Cassins Purple Finch were much in evidence. As I came up to the cabin, a house-wren flew out. I entered to find her home in a small cupboard back of a whisky bottle, but no eggs. While sitting on a box in the doorway to rest and watching the Wren a few minutes, my eyes was attracted to a much larger bird which alighted on the roof of the stable, some distance away. Resting there but a moment it dropped to a dry spot nearby, flew back up to the stable roof, then away to some large aspens, carrying in its bill a small twig. That this bird was a female Grosbeak I felt sure, although the distance was to great to be positive. Not allowing my eyes to wander from her, I reached for my binoculars as she hopped from branch to branch with that careless unconcern in which art these birds are quit proficient. Presently she flew up the mountain side to a large, lonely fir standing in a body of small aspen, and I raised my glasses just in time to see that she had alighted within a foot or so of what seemed to be an already formed nest. After placing her material, she returned to the stable, then dropped to the bare spot in search of more nest material as before continuing to and from her nest in this manner for more than an hour. Then to make myself doubly certain, I made my way up the mountain, and upon climbing the tree, found a nest whose lining was partially completed. The nest was situated in a rather heavy clump of boughs, 14 feet out on a horizontal branch and some 25 feet from the ground. The female was not at the nest at the time I commenced to climb the tree, but presently returned alighting within two feet of me to immediately fly away again. She was not seen again this day.

June 24—Iowa Copper Mine—Today while watching a pair of Gray headed Juncos nest building, some 200 yards below the cabin where on June 21 I found the female Grosbeak gathering nest material. I heard calling at regular intervals, a male Grosbeak, but no bird had yet been seen, although I had looked carefully. Suddenly I realized that something had crossed my vision, and my eyes instantly rested on a female Grosbeak sitting on a branch of a dead aspen. Apparently it was their trysting place, for almost at the same moment, the male appeared from somewhere alighting on the same branch some eight feet from the female who squatted with outspread wings and tail, much as one sees young, fledged birds when being fed by their parents. Both birds commenced and kept up a continual twitter, the male strutting to and fro on the branch, each time drawing a little nearer the female, and the while making obeisance, bowing the head as low as the feet, and displaying his colors with much grace, until they finally met. The female had not moved since alighting, other than the trembling of spread tail and fluttering wings. The male then rubbed his head and neck against the head and neck of the female, several times up and down, then suddenly with open beak she raised her head, the male seizing her by the beak, the two commenced tugging and pulling at each other. The stroking of necks and tugging of open bill of female was gone through three times, always with much chattring; then coition; then with continued actions of endearment the male worked himself back to his original position on the limb, some six or more feet away, only to recommence his advances Three times these actions were performed, then without warning both birds assumed a normal attitude and went as they had come, in opposite directions. The male into the dense conifers about two rods away; while the female flew high over the tops of the trees fully an eighth of a mile and down to a lower altitude. Neither bird was seen again this day although diligently searched for, nor was there anything in their actions that would indicate that they had a nest in the immediate vicinity, as neither bird came from or went in its direction. This is the first time I have seen the male of this pair.

The locating of a pair of these birds does not always, however, mean the easy finding of their nest; for they have a very wide range, the male radiating from a quarter to a half mile in all directions. Our trips in quest of these birds has not been of two or three days duration; but of from two to six weeks, and all the ground covered has been carefully worked, so we therefore know that the number of pairs are scare and limited, being spread over a considerable territory. Invariably the nesting site chosen is in a lone tree on the edge of the timber, on or near the point of a mountain always having a good outlook. Upon inquiry at several mines which continue work throughout the entire winter, we are told this bird is a constant resident. The elevation of these mines vary from 7,000 to 8500 feet.

A friend should be one whose understanding and virtue we can equaly confide, and whose opinion we can value at once for its justness and its sincerity.—Robert Hall.

SCHOOL NEWS

California Conservation Week is being observed throughout the Lemon Grove School District's schools, March 7 through 14, by discussions, plays, films, posters, club work and themes. Conservation education concerns man and his relation to the natural resources. At no other time in our nation's history, has the importance of nature's gifts gained such prominence in our everyday lives. It is hoped that through Conservation Week and continued teaching of the necessity of conservation, students may fully realize the full time job which confronts us all in this field.

To reward them for their services on the Junior Traffic Patrol, John van Gilse will have as his guests at the Grove Theatre Saturday the following boys: Bill Goins, Martin Small, Tommy Shafer, Gene Sowers, Stephen Batchelder, Lee Nevis, David Arnott, Robert Williams, John Peoples and Ralph Kehrenberg.

The San Diego Audubon Society was host to approximately 1500 children of the county on Tuesday morning, at the Russ Auditorium at a special showing "Midnight Movies in Animaland."

Pupils in the sixth grades at Lemon Grove School, with one group of seventh graders, attended the program. The group went by school bus and by private cars driven by parents. Sponsors from the school included Mrs. Loy Holmquist, Mrs. Pauline Miller and Eldon Goodall.

Howard Cleaves, veteran expert in wild life photography, narrated the film. He showed how he successfully solved the problem of taking pictures at night, revealing the mysteries of animal life at night in the wilderness. A special light called a "jacklight" was used in taking these motion pictures.

Mrs. O. Mason's second grade class at Lemon Grove School has completed a science and health unit on "Our Hamster." The group carefully observed the pet hamster, and found many things of interest to discuss with other members of the class. Later stories were written by the boys and girls about what they had discovered during their studies. The best stories were made into a book, decorated with many colored pictures, and placed in the class library, where it is being enjoyed by all. Here are some of the stories.

"Our hamster's name is Short Tail. She is golden brown and white. She has little pink feet. She carries food in her pouches. Our hamster likes water. She likes the ladder in her cage. Short Tail likes fresh vegetables." By Billy Lee Stark.

"Our hamster likes to do tricks I like to look at her when she is doing tricks. She climbs the ladder to get the vegetables we give her. Our hamster has a wire cage." By Donald Quist.

The children were given a list of hard words to help them in spelling the words in their stories.

Joan Skarda a student from Mr. Vick's fifth grade was a contestant last Sunday over KFSD at 3 p. m. in the local Quiz Kids show.

Vista La Mesa

The Vista La Mesa School News made its third appearance of the school term last week. Mrs. Hazel Schwalm, faculty advisor, announces Sharon Fisher as editor and Ethel Calderwood as assistant editor. The sixth grade students of the school are the reporters on the staff.

The paper tells us the new Auto Harp and Tone Bells, given to the school by the Vista La Mesa P.T.A., are being enjoyed by everyone.

Besides news of interest from the sixth grade, the students have gathered news, stories and poems from all the grades. Many of the social studies programs are well described by the boys and girls.

Students and teachers, who are very proud of the new school at Vista La Mesa, were given another reason to be proud of their beautiful school, when several representetives of the San Diego schools made an inspection tour of our new building last week.

Hoes, rakes and willing hands were in evidence Tuesday at the Vista La Mesa School, when weeds were cut down, and a lovely tree planted to observe the 16th California Conservation Week.

New students enrolled are: Grade 1, a. m., Terry Corrigan and Susan Titus; Grade 2 p. m., Asbom Smith; grade 3, Barbara Maleski, Linda Smith and David Dawson. Kindergarten, Will C. Dawson and Ingrid Iudsmith.

James Scheidle, first grader trasferred to Encanto.

The group of girls met at the home of Mrs. Schicketanz, 3963 Violet St., to organize a 4-H Club. Their first home-making project will be sewing. Mrs. Wilbur Page assisted in the organization of the new club.

Monterey Heights School

The fifth grade of Monterey Heights has planned its Junior Red Cross project for the year. The class will make an afghan, woven on small hand looms, for the organization, and will also compile a large scrapbook for a children's hospital. Mrs. Dorothy Babington is the teacher of the group.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grades are making plans for a track meet to be held Thursday of next week. The events scheduled will include the standing broad jump, running broad jump, standing high jump, soft ball throw, 40 yard dash, 60 yard dash and a relay race. Results of the meet will be announced following the contests.

LEMON GROVE P.T.A.

The Golden Rule Around the World is the theme for the Lemon Grove P.T.A. meeting at the School cafeteria next Thursday at 7:30. International World Understanding will be discussed and Mrs. Pauline Miller, sixth grade teacher, will have charge of the program. Second grade mothers will be hostesses.

Hawaiian Sweet Potatoes Delicious, Easy

For a delicious dinner that's quick and easy to prepare, a platter of hot pre-cooked ham slices with Hawaiian sweet potatoes is an appetizing treat. The ham slices may be served cold, or heated with the sweet potatoes and you can use two pounds of fresh sweet potatoes, or the canned dry-pack sweet potatoes, prepared according to the recipe below.

The seasoning that really makes the flavors sing in this recipe is pure monosodium glutamate which is sold in grocery steres under the name Ac'cent. Made from beets or wheat, Ac'cent does not add any flavor, color or aroma of its own but instead, intensifies and perks up the good natural flavors of meats, poultry, seafood, vegetables, gravies, sauces and leftovers. Easy to use, it's packed in red-and-silver canisters, or a red topped glass Ac'cent shaker.

Hawaiian Sweet Potatoes

3 cups sweet potatoes, mashed
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
½ tsp. Ac'cent
1 tsp. salt
Pineapple juice
Pineapple rings
Brown sugar

Heat mashed sweet potatoes, add butter, Ac'cent and salt. Mix well. Add enough pineapple juice to moisten slightly. Arrange pineapple slices in shallow baking pan. Shape sweet potatoes into six balls and place on pineapple rings. Sprinkle tops with brown sugar and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) until hot and lightly browned, 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

See How the Unique 4-Ply Construction of the
gives Extra Safety and Protection

Ordinarily, the wall of an inner tube is built of one thickness of rubber. But in the GATES VULCO TUBE, you get the increased safety and protection of a tube that is made of 4 SEPARATE PLIES OF RUBBER. Look at the big EXTRA advantages this gives you:

1. You Get EXTRA PROTECTION Against Rapid and Uneven Tread Wear in Your Tire Due to SLOW LEAKS in Tube

Air pockets and tiny particles of matter, like lint, often get into tube rubber stock during manufacture. In tubes made of one layer of rubber, these air pockets and foreign elements may work a hole clear through the tube wall. This causes pinhoes, slow leaks, under-inflation and fast tire wear.

2. Greater Protection Against Tube Tearing

Building the GATES Tube of 4 separate plies prevents any tiny air holes from going over one-fourth of the way through the tube. This prevents air seepage and under-inflation offten found in tubes of ordinary construction.

Building the tube wall of 4 separate plies or layers of rubber adds extra strength and toughness to the tube. This extra reinforcement naturally gives the GATES VULCO TUBE extra tear resistance not found in ordinary tubes of one thickness.

3. We Pay the Bill If You Damage This Tube

When installed in a new GATES TIRE, your new GATES VULCO TUBE is fully protected by a written Service Contract. This Contract says: If this tube should tear—or otherwise become unfit for service—the expense is OURS, not YOURS! You get a brand new tube and pay only for the service you have already received.

If there is one enterprise on earth that the quitter should leave alone, it is advertising. Advertising does not jerk . . . it pulls. It pulls gently at first but the pull is steady. It increases day by day, year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power.—John Wanamaker.

Adventists Start Visiting Program

A "get acquainted with your neighbor" drive has been inaugurated here by members of the La Mesa-Lemon Grove Seventh-day Adventist Churches. This is part of a nation-wide endeavor by the denomination to visit two million homes to bring "spiritual help" to the peoples of America.

Lay members of the church visited the homes in teams of two explained Elder Chas Betz, the pastor. They stressed an "every-day" religion based on greater church attendance and family Bible study and prayer distributed a leaflet especially prepared as a "cure for worry."

"The only way to reach America's unchurched millions is for the lay members to work with pastors in visiting their neighbors," the pastor declared. "The present crusade is not only to bring spiritual help to them, but also to locate needy persons whom our Doreas Welfare Society may aid. Branch Sunday Schools and children's story hours for the unchurched will also be established where needed," he said.

This program of visitation is the major Adventist missionary activity for 1950. It is being carried on in Europe, South America, Africa, Japan, the Philippines and the United States and Canada.

Official of the Adventist world headquarters at Washington, D. C. are planning for 10 million home visits by lay members during the year. Special emphasis will be given the program again on June 3 and October 7 when, according to present plans, two million homes will be visited each day.

SPRING VALLEY

(Crowded out last week)

Russell Gene Wilson, six months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilson of San Diego, was dedicated in an impressive rose bud ceremony last Sunday at La Presa Communinty Church by the Rev. Levi E. Knudson. Sponsors were Russell's grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Vail of Rolando and Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Wilson of San Diego.

The dedication was the first to be held in the church, and takes the place or other forms of baptism. It is conducted with roses, and the bud which is handed to the mother symbolizes the child who has been dedicated to God, and unfolds, as the full flower.

The film, "The Holy City," was shown at the evening service. The young peoples' choir sang during the showing of the film, adding much to the pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Scarlett and children, Mary and George, of Inglewood, were week end house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Caldwell, Helix Extension. On Saturday they made a trip into Mexico.

Mrs. Ida Long and son Douglas of San Diego have moved to a home on Douglas street.

Mrs. Winifred Whalen, Helix Extension, returned last week from Seattle, Wash., where she had been called by the death of her mother.

Mrs. Laura Kick, Helix and Harness, spent last week in Los Angeles on Relief Corp business.

MRS. MARTHA E. SINNER

Memorial services were conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Benbough Mortuary, San Diego, for Mrs. Martha E. Sinner, 1103 Olive Dr., Spring Valley. Interment was in Cypress View Mausoleum.

Born in Allentown Pa., Mrs. Sinner had lived here for 18 years. She passed away at her home Monday.

Besides her husband, Martin Sinner, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Minnie Lentz of Michigan.

Chief R. Locke Retires from Navy

Richard Locke, 3456 King St., retired this month from the U. S. Navy after completing 20 years of service. Chief Locke enlisted in Cleveland, Ohio.

During his Naval career he served on board an aircraft carrier, two battleships, a cruiser, four destroyers and several auxiliary vessels visiting a number of countries in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, Australia, New Zealand, Iceland and South Pacific Isands while so doing.

In World War II he spent three years in combat areas having acquired 10 campaign ribbons with eight stars. He was a survivor off a destroyer which was sunk in the Celebes Sea near Morotai Island.

He is very happy to have served in peace and war—happier still to be reunited with his charming wife and equally lovely three children. The Lockes will soon start building their new home on King street where they insist "the best climate on earth prevails," and Richard Locke should know.

Present Artists on Music Hour

Next Monday evening at 9 o'clock, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. will present Marian Anderson over NBC stations. Among other numbers, Miss Anderson will sing "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child."

The program of March 20 features Casadeus, French pianist. His concluding selection on the broadcast will be the finale to Saint-Saens' Concerto No. 4 in C Minor.

The Red Cross Needs Your Help

and supporters of Red Cross in San Diego County," Mr. Ridge stated. "It's important that every person be given a chance, either to work in the campaign or to make their contribution or both. If anyone isn't contacted by the local committee during the first two weeks of March, we'd suggest that he take the initiative and let us have his address so that a worker can call on him. A postcard to Red Cross, San Diego 12, is all that's necessary."

First community to go "over the top" is Descanso, according to Vince Ridge, county division chairman. Though only a part of that territory has been canvassed so far, contributions are so much higher that the quota has already been exceeded.

"But we're going to keep on working and see how high we can push up our percentage," says Mrs. William B. Clark, wife of the Mt. Laguna forest ranger who is in charge of the campaign workers for the second year.

Food Distribution Bill is Proposed simple and effective remedy is at the disposal of the majority party in Congress, the President and the Secretary of Agriculture, if they care to put it to work.

Along with 23 of my colleagues, I have introduced a bill in the House which would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to advance freight and handling charges up to the cost of six months' storage on surplus food commodities to be diverted into the School Lunch program and distributed to needy people throughout the country through Federal, State and local welfare agencies. According to the latest figures, there are in the country 2,715,751 persons receiving old age pensions, 1,486,404 receiving dependents and children benefits, 92,000 blind receiving help, and 543,000 on State and local relief rolls!

There are, for example, 725,000 pounds of government-owned turkeys in storage now. Why not bring all these statistics together, for they are more than statistics; they are food for people. The legislation I have described will accomplish this, but it should be acted on quickly, before more of the surplus food spoils. The next move is up to the Administration which should take action to clear this bill through the House Agriculture Committee for prompt considerfation on the House floor. Surely they can see the wisdom of getting this food to deserving people rather than pay ing ever-increasing storage costs on it and ultimately hiring more people to destroy the food.

Entirely apart from its charitable and humanitarian aspects, the proposed surplus foods distribution bill would merit the approval of Congress if only the basis of economy. Removal of the staggering costs of transportation, storage and destruction would constitute an act of economy from which all taxpayers would benefit. This is an item to remember the next time you hear someone protest that spending cannot be curtailed and taxes reduced without serious impairment of the government's essential services to the people.
